United States Attorney Deborah R. Gilg announced that Samuel Haley, 48, of Omaha, Nebraska, was sentenced on June 10, 2011, in Omaha, Nebraska, for failing to register as a sex offender. The Honorable Joseph F. Bataillon, United States District Court Chief Judge, sentenced Haley to a 30 month term of imprisonment. The Court imposed a lifetime term of supervised release to begin at the completion of Haley's prison term.

Haley had two prior sexual assault convictions that require him to register as a sex offender for life. He was convicted of First Degree Sexual Assault in Douglas County Nebraska in 1991. He was later convicted of Aggravated Criminal Sexual Assault in Illinois in 1996.

Haley returned to Nebraska in September 2010 where he stayed with a niece and later relocated to a shelter. He failed to register as a sex offender residing at either location. He was arrested by United States Marshal's Office on October 7, 2010.
